Dixie Newspapers to Back Southern Pine Paper Mills

Southern Publishers Ass'n. Employs Newsprint Engineers

HERTY'S PROCESS

Would Bring South 170 Millions a Year Lost to Foreign Nations

SAVANNAH, Ga.—(P)—The newsprint committee of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association Monday announced it had taken active steps toward erection of a mill to manufacture newsprint from Southern pine. After inspecting the experimental plant here where Dr. Charles H. Herty developed the process of making paper from pine logs, the committee decided to employ noted paper mill engineers to survey the situation. The survey probably will require from six weeks to two months. If the report is favorable, the first mill could be finished.

Huge New Industry Predicted The committee heard a prediction that a plant to manufacture newsprint from pine would be established in the South in two years and that the industry would bring 170 million dollars to the South annually.

James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner and chairman of the committee, predicted the industry would be under way in 24 months.

Newsprint made from Southern pine meet the tests of that made from spruce and it probably can be done commercially at $6 to $8 a ton lower cost," he said.

Joining in the sessions were William G. Chandler of New York, general manager of the Scripps Howard newspapers and chairman of the American Newspaper Publishers Association Newsprint Committee, and John Coffin of New York, of the Hearst newspaper organization, an expert on newsprint.

Tells of "Revolving Dollar"

Francis P. Garvan, president of the Chemical Foundation, Inc., in a letter suggested consideration of a "revolving dollar," which he said is worth up to 10 times as much as Americans as export dollars.

Mr. Garvan's letter was addressed to Mordecai Ezekiel of the United States Department of Agriculture and was in reply to reports that federal aid for establishing a newsprint industry in the South had been opposed by Ezekiel.

"In your former letter you did, speaking for the Department of Agriculture, turn thumbs down on the efforts being made to develop the paper industry of the South.

"Further you state: 'In my previous letter I took issue with your statement that all the money spent on imported wood pulp was so much waste.'

"I made no such statement, I did state: 'During the last four years the imports of wood pulp and paper have increased into the United States have amounted to an average of over $17,000,000 a year. This amount is roughly 70 per cent of our yearly consumption. This amount goes abroad and is lost each year and what we get for it

No. 4 Highway Meet Here Wed.

Caravans Coming Here From Cities Along Road Route

Warren, Hampton Joining Camden in Sending Visitors to Hope

MEETING AT 2 P. M.

Purpose Is to Obtain Completion of 11-Mile Link in Nevada County

Motor parties from cities and towns along the route of highway No. 4 are scheduled to meet at Hope city hall at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to discuss a petition to the State Highway Commission to complete the 11 miles of unfinished road from Rosston east to the Nevada-Ouchita county line. Sponsored by Luther Ellison, manager of Camden Chamber of Commerce, the Hope meeting will include representatives from the following cities and towns:

Hope, Warren, Hampton, Camden, Rosston, Waterloo, Willisville, Nashville and DeQueen.

In a letter to A. H. Washburn, publisher of The Star, Mr. Ellison writes:

Caravans Organizing

"Have just talked to Bill Graham at Warren and he tells me that two cars will come from Warren, one from Hampton, and we will have three or four cars from Camden, and I am sure several cars will come from Waterloo, Rosston and intermediate points."

Invitations were extended by Mr. Ellison to Mr. Hutchinson at Waterloo, Charles Ferguson of the Nashville News at Nashville, and State Senator Winifred W. Lake and Frank Steel of DeQueen to head up parties from their respective communities.

Highway No. 4 runs from the Mississippi river, opposite Glenwood, Miss., from Arkansas City through Warren, Camden, Rosston, Hope, Nashville and DeQueen to the Oklahoma line.

11 Miles Unfinished

The last construction work was the building of the Hope-Rosston link in Nevada county in 1930, leaving unfinished the 11 miles from Rosston east to the Ouchita county line. This section is neither graded nor gravelled, but the Ouchita count stretch is finished with gravel surface all the 18 miles from Camden west to the Ouchita-Nevada county line.

Arkansas has 3 1/2 millions available in federal highway aid during the fiscal year beginning Sunday, July 1.

Anti-Lobby Law Handicaps Bidders

With Chrysler and Ford Barred, U. S. Officials Seek Regulation Change

WASHINGTON —(P)—Congressional investigators decided Monday that the anti-lobbyist ban slapped on as a result of the District of Columbia grand jury investigation of War Department purchases was too stringent.

After hearing that the ban, the first tangible result of the grand jury study, had eliminated the Chrysler company from bidding for War Department business, members of the house military subcommittee said that they would seek temporary relaxation of the order.

The committee learned from Maj. Gen. L. H. Bash, quartermaster general that all bidders on War Department business now had to sign affidavits attesting that neither they nor their affiliates were employing anyone other than a bona fide established commercial or selling agency to "solicit or secure" the contract.

Under the contracts in use before the affidavits were required, Bash said, parent concerns dealing through subsidiaries could employ lobbyists. If the government learned of it it could deduct from the amount paid to the contractor the fee paid to the lobbyist.

Representative Goss, Republican, Connecticut, told reporters he expected to discuss the situation with Woodring and ask that the ban be lifted long enough for the War Department to purchase several hundred trucks with a PWA allocation.

whole, but the way it has worked out has been restrictive. With Henry Ford barred because he won't sign the NRA compliance certificate and Chrysler ruled out because of the new requirement, the government can not buy light trucks from anybody but Chevrolet.

Sciaccia was seized early Tuesday by a band of six men, armed with pistols and shotguns, as he drove into the garage of his home with three of his children.

"Don't worry about your father, get in touch with your uncle," a mysterious caller told the son, Carlo, over the telephone soon after Sciaccia disappeared.

Sciaccia's wife told officers the family is poor, but police said Sciaccia owned considerable property, a restaurant and an expensive car.

TO BEGIN A CRUISE

Roosevelt Clearing Deck—Will Sail for Hawaii on Saturday

WASHINGTON —(P)—President Roosevelt will talk to the nation over the air Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock Central Standard Time, (Hope time), presumably to give a report on the state of the nation's affairs.

Returning to the capital after his New England trip, the president emphasized Tuesday that he had no injecting politics into any of the talks he may make this summer upon his return across the country from the West Coast after his Hawaii cruise.

Following his radio talk Thursday night the president will clear up his desk and depart Saturday from Annapolis on the cruise. He worked Tuesday on business which may be disposed of before his departure, signing some bills, including one authorizing the formation of a corporation to insure effective diversification of prison industries. The bill, by Representative Tarver, Georgia, creates a board to formulate plans for the use of prison labor—in a manner that will not compete with private enterprise or free labor.

Hosiery Company, Hit by NRA, Closes

Harriman Mills Shut Down Following "Boycott" Penalty

HARRIMAN, Tenn.—(P)—The Eagle was taken away by the NRA Harriman Hosiery Mills, whose Blue last week for alleged violation of the hosiery code. Monday closed down its plant and threw 653 employees out of work.

T. Asbury Wright Jr., attorney for the mills, released a letter written to Administrator Hugh S. Johnson which charged that "we are convinced that through boycotting and every other means at your disposal you have set out to wreck this concern."

"We would like to know," Wright wrote Johnson, "if the Blue Eagle is the property of the law-abiding citizens of the United States, or if he is a plaything to be held over the heads of honorable and decent employers as a cudgel to browbeat and bulldoze them into surrendering their constitutional rights for the benefit of outside agitators whose only purpose is to exploit labor for their own personal gain."

The Blue Eagle was taken from the mills on recommendation of the National Labor Board which charged mill officials with refusing to bargain collectively with its employees. The controversy started last October when a 300 employees were on a strike, claiming the mill refused to reinstate 23 workers after joining the United Workers Textile Union.

Tri-State Ginners Launch L. R. Battle

Associations Meet in New Effort to Draft Marketing Agreement

LITTLE ROCK —(P)—With many voices raised in disapproval the ginners of Arkansas, Missouri and Illinois met here Tuesday to consider a proposed marketing agreement for the ginning industry.

J. R. Bertig, Paragould ginner, envisioned the meeting with a declaration that the Agricultural Adjustment Administration (AAA) "was intended to help the farmer, but the ginner must be protected and at present this agreement isn't worth a darn."

He asserted "an absolute agreement was made in Washington," but appears to have been changed.

James A. Kennedy of the legal department of the AAA, presiding officer, interrupted to say that he believed Bertig's reference was to C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section of the AAA, and thought that Cobb did not intend the agreement to be made a contract until signed by the ginners.

The code as proposed would require ginners to pay the growers "not less than 90 per cent of the average grade value of seed produced."

Henry Moore, Jr., Texarkana, attorney for the Arkansas Ginners association, objected to the section which defined "books and records" of ginners, which he contended would allow inspection of books not related to ginning when the ginner under inspection had other business activities.

W. B. Bradshaw, president of the association declared the proposed agreement would give too much power to representatives of co-operative associations.

Democrats Have Fulfilled Pledge

Senator Robinson Sounds Keynote for Congressional Campaign

WASHINGTON —(P)—Senate and house Democrats Tuesday joined in the campaign to advance the administration's program before the nation prior to the November congressional elections.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas told a nation-wide radio audience that the popularity of President Roosevelt's program was greater now than a year ago. Representative Brynes of Tennessee said "then new deal is an established fact" and not a theory.

"The achievements of the congress," Robinson said, "represent the fulfillment of the Democratic platform endorsed by him 100 per cent when Franklin D. Roosevelt accepted the nomination for the presidency."

He said he was "proud" to be a member of congress just ended "despite the use of our political adversaries that we were a rubber stamp congress."

"We were anything but that," he continued, adding it was the duty of the president to suggest legislation and for congress to act on his recommendations."

Franks Convicted, Is Given 18 Years

Found Guilty of Slaying O. H. Dillon Near Little Rock April 29

LITTLE ROCK —(P)—Earl Franks, 28, charged with murder in connection with the slaying of O. H. Dillon at the Frank's home the night of April 29, was convicted by a circuit court jury here Tuesday and sentenced to 18 years in prison.

The case was said to be one of the most unusual here in several years, because the wife of the defendant was the only witness to the shooting. The Supreme Court has held that a man's wife may not testify either for or against him in a criminal case, except where an injury has been committed against the wife or her property.

The dying statement of Dillon was introduced and conflicted in many details with the story of the events which was related by Franks.

Franks, his wife and Dillon spent the early part of the evening at Motor Inn, roadhouse on the Memphis highway, where Franks was said to have been quarrelsome and boisterous telling the manager that he was "Dillon" and that he had "Pretty Boy Floyd" along as a companion.

R. M. McCray, former operator of Motor Inn, told of the visit of the trio to the place. The three then apparently drove to Franks' home, where the shooting occurred. Patrolmen Prewitt and Dempsey, who were investigating a case about half a block from the Franks home, heard the shots and went to the scene. They found Dillon in the rear seat of Franks car. Franks said he shot in self-defense, they testified.

Dillon, who was taken to St. Vincent's infirmary, where later his brother, B. M. Dillon visited him and obtained the deathbed statement in which the wounded man said Franks shot him without cause. The statement was introduced and was substantiated by Miss Kathleen Buchanan, nurse.

Nazis Hear That Military Dictatorship Is Planned Next

BERLIN, Germany —(P)—The government, hearing for almost the first time since Adolf Hitler's ascendancy as chancellor, rumblings of dissatisfaction with Nazism, threatened sharp action Tuesday.

Officials indicated that they would move for the complete extinction of the auxiliary branch of the War Veterans League.

Rumors recently said that the League held secret plans to replace the Hitler regime with a military dictatorship.

Nazi secret police reported there was reactionism in the league and a nation-wide plot to overthrow the Nazi regime.

Nearly all the members of the league once belonged to the Secret Helms, a force which was powerful before the Nazis gained authority.

Congress Gets Post Offices Back on Pile Counter . . . PWA 2,000,000 Job Claim Seems Optimistic . . . AAA Takes a Drubbing . . . Boycott Severe Blow to German Trade.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Few have noticed it, but postoffices are back on the pile counter.

Congress guessed it had been too generous when it gave the privilege of allocating all the new one-cent Secretary Ickes under the $3,300,000,000 public works program.

Tough little Ickes wouldn't hand them out unless the thought they were economically justified. He was so hard to convince that he even refused one for his own home town in Illinois.

Postoffices and promises of postoffices are pretty important to a congressman in re-election campaigns.

Ickes, appearing before a none too friendly house appropriations subcommittee, said if the country were going to build postoffices which the figures showed couldn't be justified from a business point of view, he hoped the responsibility would be taken away from PWA.

It must have sounded like a good idea. Congress quietly earmarked $55,000,000 of the new public works money for postoffices to be selected from two specific lists whose total cost would be $170,000,000. And left it to Postmaster General-Democratic National Chairman Jim Farley and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to choose them.

And maybe you think Farley and Morgenthau are going to have fun discriminating between one town and another when the boys come hollering!

2,000,000 Sounds Strong

The Ickes estimate that 2,000,000 persons have been employed through PWA, directly and indirectly, seems a shade on the optimistic side, though there is probably no way to determine the number accurately. It's often figured that $500 spent for public works employs two men, directly and indirectly, for 12 months.

Thus far only $370,000,000 of PWA money has been paid out—excluding CWA funds. Do your own long division.

AAA Gets a Scuttling

The sad demise of the AAA amendments, which would have made AAA control measures bombproof in the courts, but which were sunk in committee by senators led by Smith of South Carolina and Byrd of Virginia, recalls some amusing incident history.

Secretary Wallace and his fellow agricultural brain trusters originally worked out three groups of proposed amendments to the farm act: 1. The absolutely essential. 2. The important, but not essential. 3. The desirable, but neither essential nor important.

They abandoned one set. Soon afterward, Roosevelt told them to drop the second list—it was too much of a load for the current session.

So AAA went to bat only with the "must" stuff. It was that list which was first modified under attack and then scuttled completely.

One of the original amendments was designed to protect the consumer more clearly than the act, which might be construed to "freeze" the present margins of the middlemen—which isn't the AAA idea at all.

Behind closed doors, Chief Counsel Jerome Frank of AAA ridiculed it. He explained there were three possible interpretations, which sounded worse and worse as he expounded them.

"Who do you suppose wrote that?" asked Wallace.

"I suppose it was Ezekiel," Frank replied. "It sounds like him." (Meaning Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, chief economic adviser.)

"I wrote it myself," said Wallace. "Let's throw it out."

German Trade Hard Hit

The German moratorium was no surprise to the State Department, which keeps in pretty close touch with what's going on everywhere. The economic and financial condition of Herr Hitler's country has been growing steadily worse, though you would not necessarily believe it from official German statistics.

The boycott of German goods around the world has been more deadly than commonly supposed, and Germany's unfavorably balance of trade is increasing.

Although the boycott may have been started by Jews, it has been taken up by other religious and political groups in Europe and even in the United States.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton
How Far Should Parents Allow A Child's Generosity to Go?

A mother wants to know if a child can be too generous.

When a baby is born, he doesn't lose much time in developing his "social attitude"—that is to speak, his manner of treating people. He soon learns that they react very quickly to his behavior. He finds, perhaps, that he can rule best by rage or will. Or he finds that he can get what he wants more quickly by docility, sweet appeal, or giving in to others so they will love him more and therefore do more for him.

Starts in the Cradle

It is very vague, but these different characteristics start sometime, and it is agreed that it is early babyhood that sets the pattern. Heredity is still an argument. I lay little to it. But that certain temperamental "tendencies" do come down the line, it would take a more erudite person than myself to contradict.

However that may be, in a few years, it won't be the so-called "strong-willed" child who is most generous, but the child who deliberately places his will subservient to others in order to get their liking. His "self" complex is at work just the same as that of his rougher brother. He merely uses a different method.

Such a child will sometimes give up his toys, his turn at play, his own opinion and his very identity, in order to have others say he is nice and kind and good. He might do it even to attract unfavorable attention, for attention is meat and drink to the growing child—pleasant or unpleasant.

Winning Attention

If a mother suspects that ever-generosity on the part of her child is such a maneuver, she can't face him with it, or scold. He simply would not understand. It may be that she even insults him by calling him a spineless sissy or a silly dunce or whips him, and he might in an extreme case even like it. It is at least ATTENTION.

A miracle might be worked if she watches her chance and praises him in no uncertain terms for some small act of self-defense without adding a lecture. All children have a right to defense. No one expects them to be perpetual martyrs, and they shouldn't be. They will only bring down contempt on themselves if they become supine and jelly-like. If a child gets praise sufficient to satisfy him for one act, he may try it again. In other words, do not accent his failures by scolding, but his ventures at holding his own by praise.

Encouraging Generosity

Naturally we want to encourage generosity in children—especially in the ruthless ones. And generosity can go a good way before I'd dream of discouraging one small atom of it. The child trained in giving and in tolerance and in sympathetic help (all generous impulses) needs to go right on. Not from any emotional thrill or kick, but because it is right.

But generosity can become a fault, if not activated by self-erasing impulses. Self exploitation is not real generosity but even so it is easier to live with than selfishness.

Glorifying Yourself

By Alicia Hart

Headwork Counts in Makeup

One of the reasons that coiffure experts and noteworthy cosmeticians are so successful in pleasing their customers is that they dare to experiment a bit now and then and, once they've proved the value of the experiment, have sense enough to leave well enough alone. The wise woman, particularly one who can't go to beauty shops often, should make an unprejudiced checkup on her personal appearance occasionally and then do a bit of experimenting herself.

One popular stage star confesses that she went alone for years trying unsuccessfully to get a part in a play and that it was not until she tried a new hair dress and some rather exotic makeup that she was able to make any sort of impression on the producers.

Then there is the famous New York coiffure expert who says that any woman who has fair features and passable hair can look fairly lovely if she'll just use the correct makeup and wear her hair in a becoming fashion. The

On the right is a young woman who wears her hair in tight waves—probably because it's hard to break the habit—and pulls the dips over her cheeks and forehead, breaking an otherwise smooth and flattering profile line. To make matters worse, she puts her rouge on in two small spots on the cheeks, neglecting to blend the edges, and smears lipstick on white skin as well as lips. She completes the bad picture by frowning.

The large picture is of the same young woman after a famous cosmetician showed her how to make up correctly and how to do her hair a new way. As you can see, her rouge is carefully blended, lipstick follows the contour of her lips and her hair is softly waved backward, allowing her lovely forehead to show. She's smiling now—and no wonder.

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY
"STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When HOWARD JACKSON comes to the small middlewestern town of Mathers, JANE TERRY, the prettiest girl in town, determines to win his heart.

Howard, a young geology instructor, is attracted by Jane's friend, AMY LOWE, but Jane schemes to keep the two from becoming better acquainted. Howard hears Amy playing on the chapel organ one day, calls on her that evening and almost immediately falls in love.

On the very same day he is confronted by Jane who hysterically accuses him of breaking her heart. When he tries to calm her Jane interprets his words as a declaration of love. Next morning the telephone rings. "Howard and I are engaged."

Amy, thoroughly unhappy, is plotting in the chapel next day when Howard climbs in a window and tries to explain the "engagement." There is loud pounding on the door. Amy opens it and three men who are very angry.

CHAPTER V

"CLIMBED in the window because the door was locked," said Howard. "I wanted to speak to Amy and I didn't suppose she'd let me in if she knew who it was."

"And why not, for heaven's sake? What did you want to say to her?"

"It was nothing important," said Amy, angrily. "This is nonsense. Stop acting like idiots, both of you."

But Jane was in full swing as a suspicious and injured heroine.

"I'm not so sure it's nonsense. I don't like it. And you'll please not try to answer for Howard, Amy. The thing I want to know is, what did he want to tell you that was so urgent he had to climb into a window to tell it. I have a right to know."

"Jane," said Amy before Howard could reply, "I told you this was nonsense and it is. Don't make a fuss about nothing—"

At this Jane soared higher. "I am engaged to you, Howard," she said loftily. "You owe me an explanation. I insist that you make it, at once."

Amy put out her hand in appeal to Howard. "Don't, don't," she begged, but he would not listen. He spoke quickly, with relief. "I came here to tell Amy that I love her and that I had intended to ask her to marry me until—"

"You said you loved me," declared Jane in a high proud voice, but with panic in her eyes. "You asked me to marry you. There was nothing to misunderstand."

Howard turned round to Amy. "Do you believe her?" she asked bluntly.

Amy could not stand any more. "It doesn't matter what I think or believe," she said. "This is all horrible. I won't be mixed up in it. I'm going."

JANE caught her arm. "No, you're not. It's all your doing anyway. You've been trying your best to get him away from me!"

"That's vulgar and rotten. And not true."

"Then tell him you don't care anything about him. Tell him that."

"But what's the use of all this, Jane? You're just making everybody upset and unhappy. There's no reason why we should take our feelings out and wave them around like flags. I hate it," said Amy, adding slowly, "and I won't do it. We're all overexcited, and we're all a little—ridiculous."

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY
"STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When HOWARD JACKSON comes to the small middlewestern town of Mathers, JANE TERRY, the prettiest girl in town, determines to win his heart.

Howard, a young geology instructor, is attracted by Jane's friend, AMY LOWE, but Jane schemes to keep the two from becoming better acquainted. Howard hears Amy playing on the chapel organ one day, calls on her that evening and almost immediately falls in love.

On the very same day he is confronted by Jane who hysterically accuses him of breaking her heart. When he tries to calm her Jane interprets his words as a declaration of love. Next morning the telephone rings. "Howard and I are engaged."

Amy, thoroughly unhappy, is plotting in the chapel next day when Howard climbs in a window and tries to explain the "engagement." There is loud pounding on the door. Amy opens it and three men who are very angry.

CHAPTER V

"CLIMBED in the window because the door was locked," said Howard. "I wanted to speak to Amy and I didn't suppose she'd let me in if she knew who it was."

"And why not, for heaven's sake? What did you want to say to her?"

"It was nothing important," said Amy, angrily. "This is nonsense. Stop acting like idiots, both of you."

But Jane was in full swing as a suspicious and injured heroine.

"I'm not so sure it's nonsense. I don't like it. And you'll please not try to answer for Howard, Amy. The thing I want to know is, what did he want to tell you that was so urgent he had to climb into a window to tell it. I have a right to know."

"Jane," said Amy before Howard could reply, "I told you this was nonsense and it is. Don't make a fuss about nothing—"

Sex No Factor in Success of Films

Well-Made Pictures Succeed, Sometimes Wholesome, Sometimes Sexy

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., (AP)—What the movie-going public wants apparently is not decided by types of pictures, but by the individual qualities in pictures, Hollywood's profit-and-loss sheets of the past indicate.

As filmland reacts to a demand for "cleaning-up" of pictures, it can point to outstanding money-makers among films of the types labeled, "sex" and "crime" but it has equally impressive showings for the films of the "wholesome" type.

Stars like Will Rogers, Marie Dressler and Jane Gaynor, whose pictures are of the "family" type, consistently appear among box-office leaders. But Mae West, whose films are at times spicy, is up there too.

No two pictures have enjoyed to many, "repeat engagements" in successive years as the vastly dissimilar "It Happened One Night" and "She Done Him Wrong," starring Mae West.

Warner Bros. found lavish musicals and feature comedies among the extremely profitable films. Joe E. Brown whose films are intended for family consumption, ranks among the top box-office stars.

"Little Women," R. K. O.'s most prominent contribution to "wholesome" pictures is piling up tremendous grosses.

Paramount's box-office winners of recent months include Mae West's "I'm No Angel" but along with it are innocuous films like "Little Miss Marker" "Mama Loves Papa," "Sign of the Cross." On the other hand, "A Design for Living," a sex triangle picture has done well at the box-office.

Paramount Studios announce they are considering a change in Mae West's latest picture, "It Ain't No Sin," before it is released.

A decision will probably be reached Monday in New York. If such a change is made, it was explained, the release of the film will be delayed several days.

The word "it" in the film title is perhaps ambiguous, the studio said. Several titles have been suggested, including the idea of billing the film under Mae West's own name without a title.

The studio said "church agitation" for clean films had nothing to do with the proposed title change as far as was known here.

Because of the demand from so many theatres over the country for the film on the tentative release date, June 30, the studio crews have been working day and night preparing prints.

Glass Voted Best Senate Democrat

Newspaper Scribes Vote for Huey Long as Best-Dressed Senator

WASHINGTON—Senator Carter Glass of Virginia is the "ablest" Senate Democrat, and Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania the "ablest" Senate Republican, in the opinion of Washington newspapermen, members of the Congressional Press Galleries. Eighty-two newspapermen, regularly covering the news of the capital, replied to the 28 queries contained in a questionnaire, the results of which were made public Saturday.

For "ablest Senate Democrat," Senator Glass received 20 votes; Senator Wagner, New York, 21; Robinson, of Arkansas, nine; Brynes, South Carolina, five; Cossigan, Colorado, four; Black, Alabama and Harrison, Mississippi, three each; Adams, Colorado, two. Five senators received one vote each.

For "ablest Senate Republican," Senator Reed received 30 votes; Senator Norris, Nebraska, 16; McNary, Oregon and Borah, Idaho, 10 each; Johnson, California, six; LaFollette, Wisconsin and Steiwer, Oregon, three each; Couzens, Michigan and Fess, of Ohio, one each.

As the senator who would be least missed Senator Robinson of Indiana received 42 votes; Trammell, Florida, 11; Long, Louisiana, four. The remaining votes were scattered.

The vote on the senator with the best chance of being president gave Senator Vandenberg 22 votes; LaFollette, Wisconsin, 15; Reed, Pennsylvania, six; McNary, Oregon, three; Buckley, Ohio, and Brynes, South Carolina, two each; remainder scattered.

Senators receiving the leading number of votes in the balloting on the other questions were as follows:

James Wedell, Air Speed Ace, Killed

Crash American Flier Crashes While Instructing Student

PATTERSON, La.—(AP)—James R. (Jimmy) Wedell, 34, famous speed flier and airplane builder, was killed instantly Sunday in the wreck of a small gypsy moth English type airplane in which he was giving instructions to a student flier, Frank Snear, of Mobile, Ala., who was injured critically.

Snear was taken to St. Mary's hospital in Franklin. He lost consciousness and was unable to tell what caused the accident.

Wedell's body was found in the cockpit. His head was lying against the instrument panel, his skull crushed and his body mangled.

The crash was witnessed by several persons at the airport. E. J. Robertson, factory manager of the company and one of the witnesses, said that before taking off Wedell had examined the plane thoroughly.

"He always looked over a ship before flying," Robertson said. "If it wasn't all right he would have it fixed up before leaving the field."

He said Wedell had flown the ship several times before and that fliers considered it one of the safest types of planes manufactured.

Robertson said the plane took off smoothly from the port, heading southward into the wind. It began to climb slowly, he said, and then about a mile south of the field the plane suddenly headed downward. It leveled for a brief moment as Wedell apparently attempted to straighten it out, then it dived nose first to earth.

Jack Hyde Keeps Candidate's Date

Former Star Managing Editor Handling Oklahoma State Campaign

OKLAHOMA CITY.—(AP)—Dr. George S. Long, brother of Louisiana's Senator Huey, departed Saturday to continue his campaign for state corporation commissioner under a $40 police court bond but promised to pay a return visit to Oklahoma City to "pay my respects" to major utilities and chamber of commerce.

His campaign manager, Jack Hyde, remained to keep the candidate's engagement in police court, resulting from an attempt to speak without a permit in Civic Park here Friday night.

Chief of Police John Watt led a raid on his Long party when the latter mounted a stand and began to speak. The Tulsa district was required to post cash bond.

Hyde said Long would continue to apply daily for a speaking permit and added "We understand thoroughly that if we don't get a permit from the Oklahoma Gas & Electric Co., we can't occupy the park. He also criticized Mayor Tom McGee, one of Long's opponents, but city officials denied McGee had anything to do with the raid. They said a congressional candidate previously had been granted use of the park.

Jack Hyde, campaign manager for Huey Long's brother in Oklahoma, is a former managing editor of Hope Star, living in this city in 1927-28.

From Hope Mr. Hyde went to Raynolds, La., working on a newspaper there, and thence to Texas and Oklahoma where he took over a state campaign headquarters.

Estes Preaches on Way to Salvation

Church of Christ Revival Draws Capacity Crowd Sunday

The meeting at the Church of Christ, located on West Fifth and Grady streets, continued with unusual interest. Mr. Estes Sunday night spoke to an overwhelming audience upon the question, "What Must I Do to Be Saved?" His sermon in part was as follows:

"What Must I Do to Be Saved?" is the sinner's most important question. The infidel says, "Do nothing. No one will ever be saved. There is no savior, no home in which to be saved, and no Hell from which to be saved. The Universalist says, 'Do nothing, and you will be saved.' The Calvinist says, 'Do nothing, God elected a few before the foundation of the world to eternal life and the rest to eternal damnation and 'the number is so definite that it cannot be increased or diminished.' But why did God allow the question and give an answer in the Bible if man has nothing to do?"

"Why should any man choose one thing to the exclusion of everything else to which salvation is ascribed? The Bible teaches that many things save, but does not say that only one thing saves. Suppose that the physician tells the patient that his physical welfare depends upon taking exercise. But where is the person so simple as to think he has nothing to do but take exercise? Remember the physician did not say 'Take exercise only!' Neither has God said, 'Saved by faith only.'"

"The question is asked and answered three times in the book of Acts. It is the only book in the Bible that asks an answer to the question. It is asked three times, and has three different answers, and yet the same answer. Each is answered according to the progress that he had formerly made before the question was asked. If a man asks the question to a certain place and the answer is three miles, and travels one mile and asks again, he is not confused when the second man tells him it is two miles, or when the third man tells him it is only one mile. He knows each one answered him according to the progress already made."

"There are three steps in becoming a Christian, viz: faith, repentance and baptism. Faith changes the heart which is all important. Repentance changes the conduct which is also essential. These two changes must take place in the heart and life of any individual before he is a fit subject for baptism, which changes his state of relation. The Philippian jailer was told to 'repent and be baptized' because they were already believers. Saul of Tarsus was told to 'Arise, be baptized and wash away your sins' because he was a penitent believer. Acts, chapters 2, 9, 16, 22. Thus you can see that each one was told to do the thing that was lacking. The answer differs in words only in meaning it is the same answer everytime. If you do not believe, I try to bring you to the point where you believe. If you already believe, I tell you to 'repent and be baptized.' If you are a penitent believer, I say 'Be baptized and wash away your sins.'"

Mr. Estes has chosen for his subject Monday night, "Safety First," or "Make It As Sure As You Can."

will be used on 302 projects, and the remainder will get under way with funds already available from other sources.

The projects selected to date by the secretary of the treasury and the postmaster general, with figures taken from the deficiency appropriations bill, when available, were as follows:

Arkansas: postoffice site and building, no estimate. Bentonville, postoffice site and building, $65,000. Fox Smith, postoffice and courthouse building, $75,000. Clarksville, postoffice site and building, no estimate. Malvern, postoffice site and building, no estimate. Warren, postoffice site and building, $65,000.

New Prohi Crusade by Bishop Cannon

Methodist Leader Urges New Attempt for American Prohibition

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church South, Sunday led more than 4,000 people in urging congress to submit a new prohibition amendment.

The proposed amendment would empower congress to prohibit or restrict the sale of alcoholic liquors in the nation as a whole.

"This will mark national prohibition of this nation will clear out issue in the election of every congressman and every senator until we have again achieved prohibition," Bishop Cannon declared.

The meeting, attended by people from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Virginia, was described as the initial move of a new national drive against the sale of liquor.

The bishop himself introduced the resolution which was passed with a roar of "aye" from the crowd which filled almost every seat in the 5,000-capacity Balford amphitheatre. No dissenting voice was heard.

Bolivians Appear to Have Held Fort

But Paraguay Minimizes Losses in Assault Upon Chaco Fortress

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina.—(AP)—The outcome of the terrific battle at Fort Ballivan, last remaining Bolivian bulwark in the Gran Chaco, was clouded Sunday in a new outbreak of propaganda warfare between the supporters of Bolivia and Paraguay.

Bolivian claims reported officially Saturday from La Paz that 2,000 Paraguayans had been killed or wounded in a deadly artillery barrage were flatly denied Sunday in Asuncion where the Ministry of Defense declared that between 2,000 and 2,500 Bolivians had been killed or wounded.

The Paraguayan losses were not stated; the Bolivians placed their losses at 61 killed and 170 wounded, but it appeared definite that Fort Ballivan still remains in Bolivian hands.

While the war ministers were laying down a barrage of words, the fighting in the jungle area along the Filomay river, scene of slaughter and destruction since May 13 since the third major Paraguayan offensive began, apparently had lulled while both sides reorganized their lines.

Dakota Governor Ruled Ineligible

Other Constitutional Officers Repudiate Him Following Conviction

BISMARCK, N. D.—(AP)—Six members of Governor William Langer's cabinet all elective officials, joined Lieutenant Governor Ole H. Olson, who claims he is legal governor, Saturday. They refused to recognize authority of Langer who was convicted of a felony recently.

The state primary election will be held Wednesday, two days before Langer is scheduled to appear for sentence. He faces a sentence ranging up to two years imprisonment of $10,000 fine or both.

The revolting officers, several of whom serve with Langer on important state boards, said they believed the governor's conviction automatically disqualified him from holding office. His opponents are Lieutenant Governor Olson, John Husby, commissioner of agriculture, Robert Byrne, secretary of state; Alfred Dale, state

"Such a Good Laxative," Says Nurse
Writing from her home in Festus, Mo., Mrs. Anna LaPlante says: "I am a practical nurse and I recommend to some of my patients that they take Black-Draught, for it is such a good laxative. I took it for constipation, headache and a dull feeling that I had so much. A few doses of Black-Draught—and I felt just fine."

Poderjay Will Be Held for Larceny

His Possession of American Woman's Jewels Is Evidence

NEW YORK—Indictments for perjury and grand larceny against Capt. Ivan Poderjay, will be sought by New York police Tuesday.

The perjury count is to be based on Poderjay's statement that he was unmarried when he filled out a license to wed missing Agnes Colonia Tufverson, distinguished woman lawyer from Detroit, last December 4.

Positive evidence has been received from Scotland Yard, according to Capt. John Ayres of the Missing Persons Bureau, that Poderjay married Suzanne Ferrand, arrested with him last week in Vienna, on March 22, 1933.

Hope of a larceny indictment is founded on Poderjay's possession of jewelry, luggage and wearing apparel belonging to Miss Tufverson when he and the mannish-looking Miss Ferrand were picked up in Austria.

Both offenses are extraditable felonies on which the philandering adventurer could be brought here for trial. Unless an indictment is found soon Poderjay will probably be freed by the Vienna police, who are holding him for suspicion of murder.

Curtail Recruiting in U. S. Marine Corps

NEW ORLEANS, La. —(AP)— So many applicants for the vacancies recently created by Congress in the U. S. Marine Corps have come long distances to New Orleans to apply in person for examination, and have had to be rejected, that Major P. D. Cornell of the U. S. Marine Corps, 535 S. Charles St., New Orleans, La., announces that applicants should not go to the expense of travel to New Orleans until they have been notified to appear for final examination.

Many who are not graduates of high schools nor have equivalent education in other schools have applied. No one can be accepted unless he submits written evidence that he possesses the educational qualifications or presents his diploma.

Applicants under 66 inches tall or under 135 pounds can not be accepted. Those under 21 years old must have consent of parents on the regular government forms.

Premier Spoiled Her Life, She Says

Canadian Executive Accused in Lawsuit at Edmonton, Alberta

EDMONTON, Alta. — Vivian MacMillan, pretty 22-year-old stenographer, Monday began telling a jury in Supreme Court of her relations with Alberta's premier, J. E. Brownlee, whom she accuses of wrecking her life. The face of the tall, slender girl was pale as she faced the man whom she and her father, Allan MacMillan, are suing for unstated charges on a charge of seduction.

She first met the premier, MacMillan said, when she was 16 and he visited at her home in Edmonton. Two years later, in the summer of 1930, she said she attended a picnic and a dance with the MacMillan family at Edmonton, told her that had grown to be "a very beautiful woman" and suggested that she come to Edmonton where there was more opportunity than in her native village. In response to his promise of a government job, she came here and went to live at the Y. W. C. A. and there both Mr. and Mrs. Brownlee visited her and took her home to tea. She accepted their invitation to visit in their home at any time, MacMillan said.

The girl said she tried to break off the relation between her and Brownlee, but that the premier refused to allow her to do so.

She told of a proposal of marriage by John Caldwell in January 1933 which was withdrawn when she confessed her relations with the premier. She had not completed her story at the time of the luncheon adjournment.

Mrs. Brownlee, a tall, grey-haired woman, snarled and wearing a silver fox fur, sat beside her husband in the courtroom.

The girls charges were briefly outlined by Attorney MacLean. The evidence will show, he told the jury, that the 50-year-old premier took the girl on motor drives, told her his wife was a wife in name only, and for two and a half years had intimate relations with her at his home, his office, and during the motor trips.

Carry-Over May Be 10 Millions

Good Chance That Cotton Surplus Will Be Reduced to Normal

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Unless both Farm Administration officials and the weather change, wheat and cotton farmers are going to plant quite a few million acres more for the 1934 harvest than they did for 1933.

The weather has co-operated almost too heartily in the Farm Administration's effort to cut down the wheat surplus.

The administration has more time to think about cotton. Planting for the 1935 harvest does not begin until next spring, and any estimate of production this year would be a guess.

The combination of the voluntary production adjustment plan and the Bankhead law, however, has trimmed acreage, final figures of which would probably be nearer 25,000,000 than 30,000,000.

The average over the past five years has been around 41,000,000.

The Bankhead law set the number of bales that might be produced tax free at 10,000,000, although leeway was provided that raised this to about 10,500,000.

The cotton carryover was 13,000,000 bales before the plow-up campaign of 1933. Experts say it will be slashed to about 10,500,000 bales by July.

Should the Bankhead law work as expected and consumption not slump unduly, a carry-over of 7,000,000 is in sight for next year.

Reports from the cotton belt tell of dry weather in the West and too much rain in the East. An unusually short

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 20

Referred to the People by the General Assembly in regular session assembled, 1933.

Be it resolved by the Senate of the State of Arkansas and the House of Representatives of the State of Arkansas, a majority of all members elected to each House agreeing thereto:

That the following is hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, and, upon being submitted to the electors of the State for approval or rejection at the next general election for Senators and Representatives, if a majority of the electors, voting thereon, at such an election adopt such amendment, the same shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, to-wit:

Except for the purpose of refunding the existing outstanding indebtedness of the State and for assuming and refunding valid outstanding road improvement district bonds, the State of Arkansas shall issue no bonds or other evidence of indebtedness pledging the faith and credit of the State or any of its revenues for any purpose whatsoever, except by and with the consent of the majority of the qualified electors of the State voting on the question at a general election or at a special election called for that purpose.

This Amendment to the Constitution of Arkansas shall be self-executing and require no enabling act, but shall take and have full force and effect immediately upon its adoption by the electors of the State.

The above resolution was filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Arkansas on the 20th day of January, 1933.

Each elector may vote for, or against, the above proposed amendment.

WITNESS MY HAND and Official seal of this office the 28th day of March, 1934.

yield might pull the cotton surplus down to normal.

In any event the maximum reduction next year under the voluntary reduction program is 25 per cent of the base average of around 40,000,000 acres, as compared to the 40 per cent aimed at this year.

On the basis of present conditions the number of acres the Farm Administration may aim at next year will be somewhere between 33,000,000 and 35,000,000.
